VOLUME 24 — JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, MONDAY, MAY 17, 1880. — NUMBER 60

BY THE GOVERNOR OF WISCONSIN.

A Proclamation.

The custom which set apart the thirtieth day of May in each year for special commemoration of the services and sacrifices of the soldiers and sailors to whose unequaled valor and abiding fidelity we are indebted for the preservation of our government and the unity of our nation, has received official recognition in Wisconsin, and that day has been added to the list of legal holidays, and when it falls on Sunday, the succeeding Monday is a legal holiday.

In deference to this provision of law, and in order to secure the cooperation of all classes of citizens in the memorial services appropriate to the occasion, the orders heretofore issued from the National and Department Headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic, designating Saturday, May 29th, as the Memorial Day for the current year, have been modified, and the members of that organization advised to observe the succeeding Monday.

Therefore, I, WILLIAM E. SMITH, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do recommend that the patriotic men, women and children in this State unite to keep and observe as a memorial holiday in fact.

We owe it to ourselves, to our country, to posterity, and, above all, to the memory of the patriot dead, to strew with the choicest of spring flowers the grave of every Union soldier in Wisconsin, and thereby bear public testimony that the names and fame of our dead heroes have not faded from our remembrance, but endure and shall endure throughout all coming years, even as the flowers appear and reappear in never-ending succession.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done [L. S.] at the Capitol, in the city of Madison, thirteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty. WILLIAM E. SMITH.

By the Governor:

HANS B. WARNER, Secretary of State.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago, Wednesday, the 2d day of June next, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election.

Republicans, and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominee of the party, are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory, and two from the District of Columbia, to represent them in the Convention.

J. D. CAMERON, Chairman.
THOMAS B. KEOGH, Secretary.

Have the Republicans any assurance that Logan, Storrs, Tuthill & Company will not bolt the National Convention?

The Senate will not likely unseat Kellogg. Even Hamburg Butler will not vote to seat Spofford. When anything political will turn his stomach, it must be pretty bitter.

If, in the language of Mr. Storrs, "the Grant men never bolt—they succeed." Mr. Storrs should have been wise enough at the Cook County Convention to have practiced what he preached.

The last estimate made on Thursday by the New York Tribune regarding the standing of the Presidential candidates, was as follows: Blaine 279; Grant 226; Sherman 96; Edmunds 34; Washburne 13.

It is said that Mr. Blaine does not give himself any anxiety about his candidacy, and that he is preparing for defeat at the Chicago Convention. It is growing more evident every day that neither he nor General Grant can get the nomination.

Boston has seven colored lawyers and six of them are in active practice and are doing well. Two years ago one of them married a prominent white lady of that city, and the event created a lively sensation in the social circles of the "Hub."

There was a sudden turn of affairs in the Whittaker case on Saturday. He was put through a most searching cross-examination, and the experts have agreed that he is the author of the famous note. Should this be established beyond a doubt, it will be very evident that he committed the injuries on his own person.

The House of Representatives has adopted a resolution to adjourn on the 31st of the present month. There is still a large amount of important business on hand, and should Congress adjourn at the time named by the House resolution, the business will be neglected. All these matters should have been cleared up long before this, and they could have been had the majority been disposed to attend to matters of public concern first, and then taken up their partisan schemes. This will go down to history as the most profitless session of Congress ever yet held.

There never was a time since the Republican party was born, when more moderation and wisdom were required than now. Scratchers and bolters should bear in mind that patriotism wins and partisanship destroys. The quarrel over candidates will not strengthen the party neither will it increase the respect the people have for the leaders in these untimely wrangles. There is no one man in the United States "however high in station or in the estimation of his countrymen, who is worth even an hour's peril of the party." It would be well for some of the pretended leaders to bear this in mind.

With the exception of Peshtigo, in this State, no town was so completely swept out of existence by flames, as was Milton, Pennsylvania, last Friday. The town was compactly built, the streets narrow, the buildings mostly wood, and when the fire started it devoured everything before it The number of buildings destroyed was 666. The loss will not fall much below two millions of dollars, while the insurance will not foot up more than six or seven hundred thousand dollars. The scenes during the conflagration baffle the description of the most fanciful pen. The fire swept with total destruction, and in five hours was laid waste an area of one mile in length and a half mile in width. Churches, stores, banks, manufactories, and residences were quickly reduced to ashes. The fire has created a good deal of distress among all classes. Scores of families lost all they had in the world, the flames spreading with such demon-like fury that no time was given them to save their goods. The appeal for aid is not unheeded. Contributions are being liberally sent in from many of the Eastern cities.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The time for holding the Congressional Convention of the First District has been a subject of discussion for a week or two past, and the general impression seems to be that it would be wise, under all the circumstances, to call an early Convention. The Hon. John R. Bennett, of this city, chairman of the First Congressional District Committee, has somewhat canvassed the matter, and we understand that he is of the opinion that an early Convention is practicable this year. He will advise with the persons most directly concerned in this matter, and with the other members of the Committee, and will act as prudence and justice will seem to dictate. It has been suggested that the Convention be called as early as August first. Considering that it is a Presidential campaign and that the canvass will begin early, that date does not seem untimely.

Practically, there will not be any opposition to the nomination of Mr. Williams. There should not be any. The time has come when men of experience are demanded in Congress. It is no time to swap horses in the middle of a stream, and it is no time to trade an experienced Representative for one who has never seen public life, and especially for one who has never been in Congress. The strongest men the Republican party has, are the men who can render the party the most valuable service while this conflict is going on between the solid South and the North. So long as the partisan leaders of the South are arrayed against the Government and against the North, and attempt to dictate the policy of the Government, just so long will there be a demand for just such men in the halls of Congress as Mr. Williams. He will not only be nominated without opposition, but he will be re-elected by a majority greater than ever before.

THE PRICE OF VICTORY.

Every reasonable Republican will admit that the party cannot succeed this fall without a united party, and that a united party and harmony cannot be secured unless the Chicago Convention shall put in nomination a man whose record is above suspicion, and whose very name is a guarantee of success. Every Republican will also see the necessity of sacrificing his own personal preferences, so far as a candidate is concerned, for the good of the party. He will take that course and do that work, which will best subserve the party and its principles. He will be a worker instead of a scratcher. He will be a defender of the party and a harmonizer, instead of a slanderer and a bolter.

The price of victory this fall is earnest, diligent, constant work. Whoever thinks that any candidate will simply have a "walk-away" even if Mr. Tilden is nominated by the Democrats, misjudges the strength of the Republican party. To start off with, there is a solid South against us and there are several doubtful Northern States. Every electoral vote of the South will be given to the Democratic candidate. There is no power to prevent this. Every species of fraud and bulldozing will be resorted to by that party to make sure of the Southern electoral vote. The attention of the Republican party must then be turned to the North. The doubtful States are New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana. The Republicans can not win and lose these States. They can give the Democrats New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, but in that case they must carry Indiana and Oregon, and then will have four electoral votes to spare. If they carry New York, they can give all the other doubtful States to the Democrats and won by a handsome majority.

We lost Indiana four years ago by 5,515 plurality over President Hayes, and New York by 26,568 majority. Connecticut went Democratic by only 1,712 majority. With a good ticket in the field, and a united party and an aggressive campaign, Connecticut and Indiana can be carried for the Republicans. There is no doubt that New York can be also carried if the Chicago Convention will heed the demands of the hour and give us a candidate who will do the important work of infusing the party with enthusiasm, harmony, courage and hope. If the National Republican Convention will do its work well, the Republican party of the North will come boldly up to the task of electing the Republican candidate.

ROBERT COLLYER.

WASHINGTON, May 16—The Rev Clay MacCauley, the pastor of All Soul's church has tendered his resignation. There is a strong feeling in the church to invite the Rev Robert Collyer, of New York, to assume the pastorate.

FATAL QUARREL.

CAIRO, May 16—Two brothers named Hall were shot at East Cairo, Kentucky, last night, by Rogers, owner of a fishing boat, the result of a quarrel between the brothers and Mrs. Rogers. One will probably die, the other will recover. Rogers escaped the boat after the shooting.

WHITTAKER.

A Sudden and Remarkable Change in the Trial—The Testimony of the Experts.

WEST POINT, May 15—This was a dramatic day in the Whittaker case, and a surprising one to everybody but the members of the Court and the experts. To Whittaker and his faithful friend, Prof. Greener, it was a day far harder to bear than any that had preceded, for while hitherto the colored cadet has had a foil, to-day there was nothing in race or class prejudices, or a partial Court, to shield him from the evidence which shut upon him in a way entirely unexpected. Those who have all along held to Whittaker's innocence cannot fail to be shaken at least by the discovery of one of the experts, announced this afternoon toward the close of a long session. That announcement explained perfectly the look of quiet satisfaction which the members of the Military Court have for some days noticeably worn. Through all the exciting scene Whittaker himself was the coolest person in the room. He answered the questions which told most against him and heard the charges of the experts that he must have written the note of warning as unmoved and unconcerned as if he were least instead of most interested.

Whittaker was on the witness stand the greater part of the day, and held firmly through everything to his original story concerning the outrage. The chief interesting feature of his testimony was his throwing suspicion on two of the cadets with whom he had had trouble, though he said he did not suspect them till about the 15th of April, and had received a suggestion from Lieut. Flipper as to one of them. Further, that he did not think his suspicion grounded well enough to mention it to his counsel, and should not have made it public but for the direct questioning by the Court. Whittaker acknowledged the writing of a letter to his mother, which was shown him, neatly incased in a frame and covered by glass. This was the point up to which the Recorder had been working. After drawing from Whittaker positive denials that he ever saw the note of warning before it was sent to him, and also the affirmation of belief that the cadet who mutilated him forged his hand in order to throw the blame upon him. Recorder Sears read the report of the conquering expert who had the good fortune to discover to his own satisfaction and that of two of his fellow experts that the famous note of warning was written on the other half of the sheet of paper on which Whittaker had written to his mother the night before the alleged outrage. The warning was produced, also in frame, and the expert testimony was read saying that both the handwriting and the torn sheets of paper gave conclusive proof that the note had been written by Whittaker himself. There was a great scene at this, Whittaker alone seeming indifferent. Then the Recorder adjourned the court. There was no need for it to sit longer to-day.

It is plain what the verdict and report will be in the face of this singular and damaging testimony. Prof Greener would only say that he did not give up yet, but he was evidently in doubt what to think. There seems no adequate motive for the deed, and altogether the Whittaker case bids fair to remain one of the most extraordinary on record.

SAD ACCIDENT.

Four Persons Burned to Death at Angola Indiana.

ANGOLA, May 15—At an early hour yesterday morning the dwelling owned by G W McConnell, occupied Mrs Smith, a woman of disreputable character, was totally destroyed by fire. Mrs Smith was absent at the time, attending a dance several miles distant, and left three children at home a boy aged 14 and two girls aged 9 and 5 years, who perished in the flames. A man named David Fry, a cigar-maker, who was sleeping in the cellar, also perished. He had gone there late last night in an intoxicated condition. He was unmarried and aged 25. The fire originated in the chimney. The roof of the building fell in before the fire was discovered. Loss on building, $1,000; no insurance.

POLITICAL.

More Speculations on the Presidential Question.

WASHINGTON, May 15—Although there is just now something of a lull in public political movements, speculation continues to increase in interest among Washington politicians as the day for holding the National Republican Convention draws nearer. The friends of both Grant and Blaine look forward to next Wednesday's Illinois convention with a good deal of anxiety, because if the third termers are worsted there the canvass of General Grant receives a hard and perhaps fatal blow. Grant men, however, feel cheerful and claim that Illinois will instruct her forty-two voters to be cast for him. They also claim as the results of conventions to be held next week, twenty votes from Alabama, sixteen from Louisiana and six from Nebraska. Though the Sherman men also claim they will secure some votes in Alabama and Louisiana. Blaine's friends feel generally confident and indeed are inclined to be boastful. They say that Grant cannot be nominated on the first ballot, and that two-thirds of the convention will vote for Blaine on the second. This, however is denied by Sherman's friends, who think that with Grant out of the way, Sherman will get the bulk of the Grant vote rather than that his friends will allow it to go to Blaine.

MINNESOTA.

Results of County Conventions in the Choice of Delegates.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 16—Republican County Conventions were held in twenty-eight counties of Minnesota yesterday. Returns have been received from twenty-one of these. There are fifty-eight counties from which returns have been received out of seventy-six counties in this State. These fifty-eight counties elect 181 delegates out of 220 delegates. The probable divisions of these 181 delegates in their choice is, for President: Windom, 93; Blaine, 81; scattering, 7. The primaries in St. Paul indicate that five more delegates from Ramsey county must be added to the Blaine column making the two leading candidates nearly even. So far a few Democratic Conventions have been held, from which it appears that the sentiment of Minnesota is strongly anti-Tilden. Seymour is the first choice of a number of counties though Hancock has many friends.

ILLINOIS.

SPRINGFIELD, May 16—But little of interest was developed in the political situation here to-day. A few more candidates, and several members of the State Central Committee, arrived. The latter are all Grant men who were notified by Logan and "Long" Jones of the necessity of putting in an early appearance. The most important arrivals were "Long" Jones, Dan Shepard, and General E N Bates, of Chicago. Jones has been closeted in his room all day. He denies the report that he proposes to name the Temporary Chairman of the Convention, and although to the general run of visitors he talks as confidently and claims as much as ever, it is known that he has weakened visibly, and is prepared to be convinced of the necessity of harmony. In fact, it has leaked out that in private conversation with some of the leading Grant men to-day he has admitted as much, and attempted to justify his extravagant claims as to Grant's strength by saying that it was necessary to claim a great deal in order to get a little. It is now known that there is a strong Grant majority upon the State Central Committee, but it is believed that they will attempt to select some impartial man as Temporary Chairman, who will be acceptable to both the Blaine and Grant men, in order to prevent trouble. So much has been said upon expected trouble in the Convention that the leading men of the party of both the Grant and Blaine factions have been alarmed, and are determined to use all their efforts to secure harmony. The Cook County delegates can safely rely upon the good sense and fairness of the delegates from the rest of the State, and a satisfactory adjustment of the present difficulty. The Convention will be composed of the best men of the party throughout the State, and it is noticeable that a large majority of the delegates are men who have not heretofore been willing to attend State Conventions. Throughout the State county machines have been broken this year. The result is that the professional politicians who have usually represented their counties have been left at home, and and men of more standing and influence are coming in their places.

THE CHRISTIANCYS.

WASHINGTON, May 16—It is reported that ex-Senator Christiancy has been very shrewd in disposing of his worldly estate so that none of it could be attached to satisfy the demands of the courts here in the pending divorce suit brought by him against his wife. Under the laws of this District, as soon as a suit for divorce is instituted by the husband the wife can obtain an order for alimony. It is reported that all the real estate owned by Christiancy was made over by him to Representative Willits, of Michigan, his attorney, before he left for Peru, and that his wife joined in the deed or power of attorney by which this conveyance was made, and inasmuch as his salary of $10,000 a Minister to Peru is in the hand of the United States, it is subject to legal process. The only way, therefore in which Christiancy can be compelled to pay alimony is by attachment in case he shall come within the jurisdiction of this Court pending the suit. While it is true that no authentic information can be obtained as to the nature of the grounds upon which Mr Christiancy's bill for divorce is based, yet the declarations of those of Christiancy's friends who ought to known most about the subject do not create for him much sympathy. His petition appears to be based upon shadowy grounds, and he makes no charge of adultery. In the cross bill which is being prepared, however, on behalf of Mrs, there are specific charges of excessive ill-treatment, of non-support, of drunkenness, and of conspiracy. The latter allegation refers to an occasion about two years since, when Mrs. Christiancy was staying at Healing Springs, Va.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.

WASHINGTON, May 16—The Hon William Hunter, Assistant Secretary of State, suffered a stroke of apoplexy to-day. It is feared he will not live through the night.

A CONNECTICUT GIRL.

The Way a "Horrid Old Man" Tried to Avoid a Breach of Promise Suit.

Philadelphia Times: It seems pretty difficult to scare off a Connecticut girl when she has once made arrangements to have a wedding come off. The local papers in a rather uneventful portion of that State tell the story of a young woman of twenty-one who had engaged to marry an old man of sixty-three. After making a memorandum of the great difference in the ages, it is probably unnecessary to say that the old fellow is rich; that was a part of the fascination with which he captured the young woman. Matters went on very smoothly for a time, until the old man began to suspect that he had rather not marry, or at least that he might not want to marry the particular young woman who was so dearly in love with him to all appearances. This hideous man began in a most cruel fashion to take the conceit out of his young love. Calling as usual upon her, this malicious and patched up wretch made a comic show of himself by removing his wig, his teeth, and some other things made to order. This, greatly to the disgraceful man's delight, astounded the young woman, and for a time it looked as if she might regard it as desirable to seek a little further for a husband. It was only for a brief time, however, for her love soon rose superior to wigs and false teeth; it was anchored on solid rocks—such rocks as rich old men sometimes employ in tempting love. She declined to consider the engagement off merely because he was bald and toothless; his purse was robust and all that a young woman could desire. In vain he further sought to frighten her by setting his age up some twenty years more than she had suspected it could be; this she rather liked, under the circumstances: His patience finally wore out, and he broke off the engagement without permission from the other party. A breach of promise case is now occupying the attention of a Connecticut court which will be likely to furnish the concluding chapter to this story.

RELIGION AND COMMERCE.

A Characteristic Speech by Rev Robert Collyer at a Banquet of New York Merchants.

At the New York Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet at Delmonico's the other evening, Rev Dr Robert Collyer was called on to respond to the next toast —"Religion: Its relations to Commerce." Dr Collyer indulged in some pleasantries in regard to the length of the dinner table speeches and the propriety of inviting ministers to attend entertainments of this character. He said he felt greatly delighted to be present and to know, as Brother Storrs was speaking, that they had a real place in this assemblage, instead of being invited as Dr Chalmers was once in Glasgyw, to give thanks and ask the blessing and then turned out. The old Doctor became very wrathy about it, and said to them: "You want us ministers to come in and ask a blessing and then go out, while you remain, and, between eating too much and drinking too much, you begin your festival with hypocrisy and end it with deviltry." It was also of advantage to the company to have Dr Storrs and Dr Cuyler among them, for those who might go home in fear of a curtain lecture could readily say to their wives: "Dr Storrs was there and Dr Cuyler was there, and this new man, Collyer, from Chicago was there, and there could be no harm in being where they were," and so the conjugal sunshine would break forth and shine again. (Laughter.) The speaker also thought it was a good thing to have the clergy represented here, because it was a most excellent service to give a minister a good dinner. An old minister out on the prairies used to say that people ought not to expect him to preach as good sermons as preached by the ministers in Chicago, because they were not as well fed, and that no one living on pork could ever expound the Gospel properly. [Laughter.] He thought their was something in the idea, because he remembered the time when he was himself invited to the first good dinner of this kind, and what a good time he had. It was in Chicago, and the first sermon he ever wrote that seemed to strike fire he wrote that week. It was printed, and had a large circulation, and had been reprinted in England, and letters had come to him from far and wide about it, but he had never told the secret of its merit until now. (Laughter.) As he looked around him he thought, what better thing could the Chamber of Commerce do a some future time—and the nearer the future the a better [laughter] than to invite every blessed minister in the city to a splendid spread, including Storrs and Cuyler, and Collyer, and all the others who, as an old gentleman in Western New York once said to him while on a lecturing tour had "become notorious." [Laughter.] Just give them a good dinner and it would be repaid a hundredfold. There was a certain kinship, too, between commerce and religion that drew them very nearly together. The merchants, so he was told, speculated in stocks, corn, and cotton, Little Pittsburg, and he didn't know what else besides, while ministers speculated in theology, and he was told, too, that sometimes the bottom fell out of the merchants' speculations, and sometimes the ministers theology had no bottom to fall out. [Laughter.] Ministers had their business, and the merchants had theirs also, but, seriously, he felt that they came together in a closer and better fashion than these he had alluded to He remembered that the Bishop Jeremy Taylor, said that "the plowman, the artisan, and the merchants are also ministers of the Divine Providence in this world," and he stood by that ruth every time. Commerce and religion, ministers and merchants, were linked together in this life they had to live together, and in this work they had to do. In every part of the world where commerce, the arts, and industry had flourished, religion had become eminent too—in the Old World, in the New World, in the old times; and whenever commerce let her end down religion went down also. The church could do nothing grandly if the merchants, the sons of commerce, did not help her, and commerce could do nothing grandly without the church. If every minister in the land were to "strike," and say to the merchants, "you don't do the square thing by us, and we'll do no more until you do better by us," every mother's son of them would go down on their knees and ask the ministers to go to work again, because 50 per cent of the value of their wares, stocks, and merchandise, would go out of them. He was glad to say, however, that they were in full accord, and he was assured that the succes of commercial enterprise was one of the safeguards of the prosperity and power of religion. [Applause.]

Arguing with a Raven.

From Mark Twain's "A Tramp Abroad."

One day in a dreamy mood Mark Twain wandered among the woods on the hills above the Neckar. This melancholy Jacques did not find a subject for reflection in poor and bankrupt deer," but, with his own peculiar vein of fancy, he discovered something to moralize about in the croaking of ravens overhead. As an instance of Mark Twain's powers of imaginative perception, the passage about the conduct of the ravens is worth quoting:

"The world is bright with sunshine outside, but a deep and mellow twilight reigned in there, and also a silence so profound that I could hear my own breath logs. When I had stood ten minutes thinking, and imagining, and getting my spirit in tune with the place, and in the right mood to enjoy the supernatural, a raven suddenly uttered a hoarse croak over my head. It made me start, and then I was angry because I started. I looked up, and the creature was sitting on a limb right over me, looking down at me. I felt something of the same sense of humiliation and injury which one feels when he finds that a human stranger has been clandestinely inspecting him in his privacy, and mentally commenting upon him. It eyed me. Nothing was said during some seconds. Then the bird stepped a little way along his limb to get a better point of observation, lifted his wings, stuck his head far down below his shoulders toward me, and croaked again,—a croak with a distinctly insulting expression about it. If he had spoken in English he could not have said any more plainly than he did say in raven, 'Well, what do you want here?' I felt as foolish as if I had been caught in some mean act by a responsible being, and reproved for it. However, I made no reply; I would not bandy words with a raven. The adversary waited a while, with his shoulders still lifted, his head thrust down between them, and his keen bright eye fixed on me; then he threw out two or three more insults, which I could not understand, further than that I knew a portion of them consisted of language not used in church.

"I still made no reply. Now the adversary raised his head and called. There was an answering croak from a little distance in the wood—evidently a croak of inquiry. The adversary explained with enthusiasm, and the other raven dropped everything and came. The two sat side by side on the limb and discussed me as freely and offensively as two great naturalists might discuss a new kind of bug. The thing became more and more embarrassing. They called in another friend. This was too much. I saw that they had the advantage of me, and so I concluded to get out of the scrape by walking out of it. They enjoyed my defeat as much as any low white people could have done. They craned their necks and laughed at me (for a raven can laugh just like a man); they squalled insulting remarks after me as long as they could see me. They were nothing but ravens—I knew that—what they thought about me could be a matter of no consequence—and yet when even a raven shouts after you, 'What a hat!' 'O pull down your vest!' and that sort of thing, it hurts you and humiliates you, and there is no getting around it with fine reasoning and petty arguments."

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE, WASHINGTON, D. C., January 26, 1880.
Messrs. LAWRENCE & MARTIN, 111 Madison St., Chicago, Ills:
GENTLEMEN: I have received a "certified formula" giving the ingredients and relative proportions used in the manufacture of an article which you advertise and sell under the name of "TOLU, ROCK and RYE." This compound, according to your formula, in the opinion of this office, would have a sufficient quantity of the BALSAM OF TOLU to give it all the advantages ascribed to this article in pectoral complaints, while the whisky and the syrup constitute an emulsion rendering the compound an agreeable remedy to the patient.
In the opinion of this office, an article compounded according to this formula may properly be classed as a medicinal preparation under the provisions of Schedule A, following Section 3,437, U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped may be sold by Druggists, Apothecaries and Other Persons without rendering them liable to pay special tax as liquor dealers.
Yours Respectfully, (Signed) GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner.

GRIEF.

EXCESSIVE ANXIETY, or PROLONGED STUDY, will produce infirmity in the Nervous System, in proportion as the strength of that system is expended upon the mind in troubled thought, so are the organs of digestion, assimilation and nutrition, rendered inactive and sluggish in proportion as the system becomes infirm. Every individual has some one organ weaker than the rest and this is always the first to suffer during nervous prostration; for example, afflicting news sometimes causes total suspension of the muscular action of the heart, when the patient is debilitated, producing a sudden hemorrhage and death. No doubt any longer remains of the practibility of restoring the nervous system, and through the nerves the muscles of the impaired organs. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been proved to possess such power in numerous instances. It will impart strength to overcome trouble and affliction. Persons who are accustomed to look upon the dark side, and who see no pleasure in living, on using this Syrup soon learn to value and enjoy life, and those who study deeply during long hours, will find in the Syrup a promoter of the power of endurance in the brain.

There is no absurdity in the fact that an impaired Nervous System causes Consumption, Neuralgia, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Epileptic Fits, Whooping Cough, Heart Disease, and a host of others; then why is it absurd that Fellows' Hypophosphites, which effectually cures Nervous Debility, should cure these diseases also. "Remove the cause and the complaint will cease."

☞ Look out for the name and address, J. F. FELLOWS, St. John, N. B., on the yellow wrapper in water mark, which is seen by holding the paper before the light.

A SNAKE STORY.

Monsters Twenty Feet in Length in Indiana—Furious Attack of a Black Snake on a Yearling Colt.

Cincinnati Commercial.

Large finds of snakes come about as regularly in Indiana as does the spring. In other words, spring time seems to be prolific of snake finds, and many rich leads are struck. Of all the turnouts of flatheads, racers, rattle, water, and other species of snakes reported from this section of Indiana, there have been none that have equaled the one reported to the Commercial correspondent to-day. And there never was a snake-find anywhere which caused a more dreadful, dangerous battle than did this one.

Mr. Joshua Mills, a farmer, lives in the extreme northwestern part of this or the southeastern part of Grant county, near the junction of Delaware, Grant and Madison counties, and about fifteen to eighteen miles from this city. Day before yesterday he was cleaning up a patch of deadening on his farm. The day was balmy and pleasant. At ten o'clock in the forenoon he had already for burning three or four heaps of brush, and when about ready for doing so he conceived the idea of cremating an old log hog pen which stood near by. A hundred feet distant was a well which was uncovered, was operated by a deep bucket attached to a pole, and was used for watering stock. A hundred feet or so further on was a large, shallow pond of stagnant water, surrounded by willows, and dead flags, and coarse grass. The surrounding country is low, wet and swampy. The hog pen was a fair specimen of ye olden time sty,—roomy, with log flooring laid on the ground and the structure resting on large logs imbedded in the earth. After determining upon burning the hog pen, on account of many rats, lizards, etc., he had seen about it, and because of its having done duty so long as to become a pest, he at once proceeded to carry brush and throw into it. He worked an hour at this. When he had almost completed his work, and was in the act of picking up the scattered limbs and throwing them into the pen, he was startled at seeing a monstrous water snake crawl out from under the logs and start off toward the pond. Mr. Mills told the Commercial correspondent's informant that this snake was not less than fourteen or sixteen feet long and about eight inches in diameter. He was so completely dumbfounded that he could not move for a moment, but finally ran towards the serpent, and with clubs succeeded in turning its course away from the pond. He then ran to the house for his gun, an old fashioned musket. When Mr. Mills returned the snake was not to be found. He then fired the truck in the pen, and started around firing the other heaps, laying his gun on the ground not far from the hog pen. The burning of the brush on the sty attracted to the scene a horse and colt, the latter a yearling, which were running loose in the clearing. After a lapse of probably twenty minutes after placing fire to the hog pen, Mr. Mills heard a disturbance among the horses, which were standing near the fire. He looked up. The animals were 150 yards distant. The first thing that attracted Mr. Mills' attention was the old horse kicking upward with his hind feet as if wild. The colt was stamping with his front feet. Finally the old horse kicked high in the air and ran, and at the same time something like a long rope whirled into the air and fell to the ground. Mr. Mills saw there was something wrong going on, and ran with all possible speed to where the trouble was. The horse which had ran away stood off 100 yards distant, "whickering." The colt pawed the ground terribly, and it was not until Mr Mills was right at the place where stood the colt that he comprehended the situation. Around the body of the colt were almost two coils of a large snake. Its tail was three or four times wrapped around the front leg, and its head had moved its coils around the colt's body. The colt's eyes protruded, its breathing was hard, it pawed, pranced, and cavorted around as if in the very throes of death. Mr. Mills had no knife with him of sufficient size to cut the reptile in twain. He hadn't time to go and get one, for the colt would die in a half-minute's time. The snake was slowly tightening its coils, and on either side of it the colt's flesh protruded, showing the terrible strength of the twist Mr Mills took in the situation at a glance. He must burst the reptile with a club, and do it very quick, too. He sprang towards a stake lying on the ground, and just as he was picking it up a whirr! whirr! was heard from behind, and, looking up, the forked tongue of a murderous rattlesnake presented itself!

The fire was so intensely hot there that it scared the rattlesnake, and it sped on and away. But then the colt continued round and round, and pawing, slower and slower, as if ready to fall at any moment. Its very life was being squeezed out of it. Without any delay Mr Mills rushed that way, and with one fell swoop of his club burst the reptile until its entrails were strewn all over the animal, and it fell to the ground dead. Strange, the colt was not seriously injured, and it walked away.

But danger to Mr Mills had just begun When the horses ran away, r score or more of snakes of various sizes and kiuds were seen running from the fire. A load of shot from his gun failed to kill any of the huge, yellow spotted monsters. Owing to the racket caused by the horses, the snakes had so far run in their direction, but as soon as the animals had got out of reach they glided in the direction of Mr. Mills. With the club he held in his hand he succeeded in keeping the snakes away from him for awhile, but finally the number grew so large, and their running so ferocious and promiscuous, that he himself was compelled to retreat. Mr. Mills noticed from a distance that nearly all the reptiles, in their hurry to get away from the scorching flames, were plunging headlong into the well, the others into the pond. From the point where he stood Mr. Mills saw, he thinks, forty or fifty horrible large snakes of various kinds go into that well

A comparatively few were rattlesnakes, and they were not very large, but some of the others, fifteen to twenty feet in length Some of the blue racers held their heads as high as a man, and swept along like race horses. The sight was one which filled the auditor with a sickening horror When the pen had burned down, so that there was not a probability of there being any more reptiles crawling from it, Mr Mills approached the well and looked in. The water was probably six feet deep, and the distance from the water to the top about eight feet. From his position he saw one of the most horrible snake fights that can be imagined. Two giants fought until the waters were turbulent with mud and blood, spurts of which could occasionally be sent to the top of the well, causing him who was looking down-ward to start back in a hurry.

Mr. Mills thought to quiet the mob by shooting them, but after firing a half-dozen loads down into the snakes and quieting a few, a new idea possessed him, and he at once commenced rolling stones into the well. When nearly filled with stones and wood he cemented the well over with dirt. And now in that grave are buried more hundreds of pounds of snake flesh than can be found in any other hole, probably in the state.

Progress in Telephones.

The Scientific American describes some experiments it has been making with telephones. One of these was to place two of the well known Blake transmitters near Mr Beecher's desk in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn. Connecting wires ramified from this point in all directions as far as Yonkers and Elizabeth, and a large number of telephones were placed in circuit. On Sunday, April 25, the second trial, the result was strikingly successful. From the opening note of the organ prelude to the last word of the preacher's voice at the close of the service, everything was delivered to the ears of the listening telephoners in the most perfect manner, the tones that came over the wires being so full, round, clear and distinct, it seemed almost to the hearers in New York, Yonkers and Elizabeth as if they were stationed within the church itself directly in front of the speaker. The delivery of music was equally perfect, every note of the organ and of the individuals of the choir being fully brought out.

In consequence of the successful results of these experiments, says the Scientific American, several new improvements have been suggested for trial, and there seems to be every probability that in a short time some new and very effective instruments will be in use, by which all who desire may carry the sound of church service into their dwellings, and may also enjoy the best lectures, musical and other entertainments with the utmost satisfaction in their homes. Heretofore, in listening to the telephone, it has required effort and strain of the ear on the part of the listener. But this experiment shows that all sounds may be delivered in full and easy tones, readily heard, with all the natural characteristics, modulations and inflections of the human voice.

CATARRH IS IT CURABLE?

THOSE who have suffered from the various and complicated forms of disease assumed by Catarrh, and have tried many physicians and remedies without relief or cure, await the answer to this question with considerable anxiety. And well they may; for no disease that can be mentioned is so universally prevalent and so destructive to health as Catarrh. Bronchitis, Asthma, Coughs, and serious and frequently fatal affections of the lungs follow, in many instances, a case of simple but neglected Catarrh. Other sympathetic affections such as deafness, impaired eyesight, and loss of sense of smell, may be referred to as minor but nevertheless serious results of neglected Catarrh, bad enough in themselves, but as nothing compared with the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs likely to follow.

IT CAN BE CURED.

It can be cured. There is no doubt about it. The immediate relief afforded by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH is but a slight evidence of what may follow a persistent use of this remedy. The hard, incrusted matter that has lodged in the nasal passages is removed with a few applications; the ulceration and inflammation subdued and healed; the entire membranous linings of the head are cleansed and purified. Constitutionally its action is that of a powerful purifying agent, destroying in its course through the system the acid poison, the destructive agent in catarrhal diseases.

A COMPLICATED CASE.

Gentlemen,—My case is briefly as follows: I have had Catarrh for ten years, each year with increasing severity For nine years I had not breathed through one nostril. I had droppings in the throat, a very bad cough, asthma so bad as to be obliged to take a remedy for it at night before being able to lie down and sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so full of catarrhal matter as to injure my sense of hearing and compel me to get up several times in the night to clear it and my throat before I could sleep. Every one of these distressing symptoms has disappeared under the use of not quite three bottles of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. My hearing is fully restored. I have no asthmatic symptoms, no cough, no droppings in the throat, no headache, and in every way better than I have been for years. I could feel the effects of the CURE on my appetite, on my kidneys, and, in fact, every part of my system. What has been done in my case is wholly the effect of the RADICAL CURE. Very respectfully,
FITCHBURG, Oct. 14. C. H. LAWRENCE.

Indorsed by a Prominent Druggist.

—Devilry seemed to break loose last Saturday and Sunday nights, and if this sort of thing keeps up, the city, instead of needing no marshal, will want two or more.

—Mrs. Cyrus Brown, whose name appeared in the telegraphic columns, as one of those badly injured in the great fire at Milton, Pa. is a sister of Dr. Hullihen, of this city.

—C. W. Baker, as Secretary of the citizen's meeting, has received the official acceptance of the Beloit Guards, of the invitation to join in the Decoration day exercises.

—John Donovan, one of the cotton factory employes, was attacked on his way home early yesterday morning. There were two or three in the gang who assaulted him, but no great amount of gore was shed.

—The rumor that a band of gypsies were encamped near the north limit of the city, caused quite a number of citizens to drive out there yesterday. They found a camp, sure enough, but there were no fortune tellers, the band being, not gypsies, but emigrants, bound for the far West.

—Peter Buskirk was this afternoon fined $3 and costs for fast driving. He and another young man were recklessly speeding a team along the streets yesterday afternoon, and endangered the lives of several foot passengers. The other young man is to be brought in yet.

—Last evening some young rowdies got hold of a two-wheel cart belonging to James Hemming run it up the hill until they reached Prof. Barton's house, when they unceremoniously tumbled the cart over the fence into the front yard. In doing so they damaged the newly painted fence considerably, and then, not satisfied with their devilry, they broke pickets off several other fences in that neighborhood.

—Laurence Mouat, of Chicago, spent Sunday in this city with his parents. Mr. Mouat's name is familiar to our readers, as it is often seen attached to sundry interesting letters, appearing in the Gazette. He is collector, solicitor and assistant bookkeeper for the New North Side Planing Mill Company, and not only serves in that capacity with evident ability, but wields a ready quill as a correspondent, and his letters to the Gazette from the great city are always read with interest.

—The funeral services of Miss Gracie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orange Williams, were held yesterday afternoon at their residence. Rev. T. P. Sawin officiated. A quartet consisting of Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Moseley, Dr. M. A. Newman, and J. H. Wingate, furnished appropriate music, and the following young men served as pall-bearers: Will Bintliff Robert Bostwick, Frank Pember, Charles Wingate, George Prichard, and Emmet McGowan. The floral tributes were beautiful, and many sympathizing friends joined in the sad services.

—The Harris Manufacturing Company is having hard work to keep up with the rush of orders. The following from the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette, shows the way the business is being rushed:

J. B. Crosby, Esq., manager, and Geo. S. Brittain, general agent for the Harris Manufacturing Company, of Janesville, Wis., manufacturers of the Janesville spring tooth harrow, were in town yesterday, and closed a contract for 75,000 spring teeth. Owing to the great demand for these celebrated harrows this firm are unable to supply the demand this year, with all the facilities they can bring to bear at Janesville. This firm are also the manufacturers of the Leader reapers and mowers. Come again, gentlemen.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 81 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., to-day at 60 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 66 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 84 degrees above. Partly cloudy.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, slowly falling barometer, warmer southerly winds, clear or partly cloudy weather, and possibly local rains in northern portions.

Newly furnished, everything the best, ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK.

CHANGE OF TIME.

The Board of Education have decided to have all the Grammar and Intermediate departments of the public schools close at 3:30 o'clock every afternoon, instead of 4 o'clock, as before. The change went into effect to-day.

THE ROUND TABLE.

The closing study of the Round Table was held Saturday evening in Cannon's hall, the subject being "Authors and Authorship." Miss A. I. Hobart, who was the chosen leader, opened the evening's programme with a paper on "The Trials of Authors." She presented many biographical facts of interest, showing how as in cases of Byron and Goldsmith and Poe, weaknesses of character had brought odium; how in other cases, poverty had hampered genius; how the severity of critics had hurt the over-sensitive authors.

Miss Susie Jeffris gave a paper on "The Domestic Life of Authors," how their home lives were often far from being happy or their companionship always congenial. She cited numerous incidents to show more vividly the home life of various authors.

Prof. J. P. Haire spoke of "The Habits of Authors," it being a gathering of biographical facts illustrating their varied modes of composition, some dashing off their work rapidly, others carefully arranging, rearranging and polishing.

Miss Bertha Sayles treated "The Rewards and Influences of Authors." She spoke of the help which printing had been in extending these influences, and ranked pecuniary recompense as the least of the rewards earned by the author.

Rev. T. P. Sawin closed the study with some remarks on "The Immortality of Books." He defined the essentials of this immortality as, containing thoughts of human interest, based on human experience, and clothed in the highest art.

This closes the season of the Round Table, as far as study is concerned. Arrangements are being made, however, for a social banquet, to be held probably on the 29th inst.

THE FOURTH QUARTERLY.

The Young Men's Christian Association yesterday afternoon held their fourth quarterly meeting in Cannon's hall. There was a goodly sized audience present, and the services were of an interesting nature. Rev. S. C. Thomas, who has lately taken up his residence in this city again, was present, and took part in the services, reading selections of Scripture and offering the opening prayer. W. E. Lewis, the State Secretary of the Association, was present, and gave an address about three-fourths of an hour in length. He spoke of the gospel temperance work, and of the way in which all of man's needs were met in the gospel. He is an earnest and fluent speaker, who cannot but command the attention and awaken the enthusiasm of his hearers.

Mr. N. Dearborn presented the report for the last quarter showing that the local association had held thirteen Sunday afternoon meetings, most of them in Cannon's hall, some of the meetings being for song and praise, and one for temperance. The Association had also held Wednesday evening meetings at its rooms, and these had been well attended. The collections for the quarter amounted to $45 67.

The annual meeting of the Association is to be held next Wednesday evening at its rooms, at 7:45 o'clock, and the election of officers, and the transaction of other important business will take place then.

THE FIRST WORK.

There is no doubt now but that the Northwestern railroad folk will build at once the road to Afton. Proceedings have commenced in the condemnation cases, and to-morrow appraisers for the city property will be appointed and the next day appraisers will be appointed for the country. To-day the first actual work on the road was done, it being the removal of Mr. Lepper's house, near Afton, so as to get it out of the way before the first train should come along and throw it off the track. Mr. Fish is moving the building.

DOWN ON THE DANCE.

Last Saturday night there was a private dance at the Northwestern hotel, near the passenger depots, the company being made up mainly by Germans. For some reason unknown some of the boys from "the patch" made a raid on the party, and a lively scene ensued. Stones were hurled, blows exchanged, windows and doors broken, and a general disorder prevailed for a half hour or more. One of those present at the dance was struck on the head by a rock, and an ugly wound was made from which the blood flowed very freely. The disturbance about the house kept up more or less all the evening, but there were no more very serious acts committed.

MERRY MUSICALE.

Last Saturday evening there was a pleasant gathering of musically inclined friends at the residence of Mr. Z. Schnell, to try the merits of a new piano, lately purchased for the house. Miss Zuercher was present, and several of her pupils, as well as herself, gave selections, and a pleasing programme of a dozen or more numbers was given as an informal entertainment to the company there gathered. Among the participants were the Misses Schnell, Hodge, Flora Bemis, Drummond, Mrs. M. J. DeLent and Mr. William Buchholz. Refreshments were served in a tempting and hospitable manner, and a pleasant social season was indulged in, which added to the enjoyment given by the excellent music furnished.

SAFEST AND SUREST.

The "Methodist," N Y city, uses the following language: "Warner's Safe Pills and Warner's SafeBitters are the best safest, surest, blood purifying medicines known. Regular practitioners prescribe them as a remedy for impure, poisoned blood.

DARIUS AT ROCKFORD.

The lecture given by Darius Allen at Rockford seems to have struck the News of that city all right, and without any fear of being pitched into by the Beloit press, it boldly declares:

A small audience listened last evening to the eloquent temperance address of Darius Allen at Red Ribbon Hall. There should have been a full house as the lecture deserved it. The speaker was a remarkably fluent, forcible and poetic speaker, and though somewhat radical, as he admitted, made excellent points. He was vivid in his word pictures and wonderfully profuse with adjectives and strong diction. He spoke extemporaneously, rapidly, and was scrupulously correct in his use of words. His tropes and similes were well chosen and striking, his language beautiful, his sarcasm bitter and frequent.

The audience were greatly interested, and should the lecture be repeated, there would no doubt be a packed house to hear him.

Pretty and Young.

in every feature but the hair, which had grown white from fever. This lady at 35 writes us: "I have used Parker's Hair Balsam six months and am more than pleased with it. It has restored the natural brown color of my hair and given it a silky softness, nicer than ever before. There is no Dandruff no falling hair, and it leaves the scalp so clean and nice and cool that I am ever so much pleased, and I feel and look like myself again." The beautiful, fresh and vigorous hair it produces, together with its property of restoring gray or faded hair to the natural youthful color, and entirely freeing the head from dandruff and itching, surprises no less than it pleases. Sold in large bottles at only 50 cents and $1 00 by all first class druggists.

CITY NOTICES

In the cure of Consumption there is probably no known medicine equal to the Syrup of Hypoposphites prepared by Mr. James I, Fellows, chemist, St. John, N. B. A number of cases have come under our notice the past year when the results which have followed its use have been astonishing. We write this unsolicitated by any one, and advise the afflicted to try it.

Peruvian Syrup.

It is seldom that we notice remedies introduced for the cure of maladies, and never with greater pleasure or more confidence in their real efficacy, than we do the PERUVIAN SYRUP (a protoxide of iron). This preparation has brought relief and comfort to thousands by expelling from the system, dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervous affections, boils, humors, and diseases originating in a bad state of the blood or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. The many testimonials that have been received by the proprietors from well known physicians, clergymen and other citizens of the highest standing, ought to be a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of this remedy. It is not a new medicine, but one that has stood the test of years, and won the encomiums of thousands.—Daily Times, Troy, N.Y.

More than another that looks neat and cool for Summer wear it is a

WHITE VEST!

When you can buy a $3.00 one for $1.50, they look all the more so, because you can have one for week days and one for Sundays, you get two for one, as it were. Three wouldn't cost you very much, and then you could look remarkably fresh. We bought a big lot of White Vests the other day at a very low figure, about 25 cts on a dollar, at least we can't buy any of them in a regular way for less than $2.00, and some of them cost as high as $3.00. As there are too many of them for us to deal out at regular prices this summer, we are offering the whole lot at $1.50 each. All Linen Marseilles and Duck, with pearl buttons, ring fastened, for $1.50. Some of the cunning boys will say they are old style: all the dealers will tell you so. Well, you take one home, compare the style, quality and fit, with any $2.50 Vest in the city, and if you don't like the bargain, come right back and get your money. We Have them all styles, with and without collars, low cut, high cut and fine cut, but no plug. We also have them for 50c, 75c and $1.00.
